

Personal and Limited Professional Terms of Use for Athena/Studio Incognito Designs

All of my products are created a 300 dpi for quality printing purposes and will be in either .jpg or .png to be compatible in a multitude of computer graphic programs. The exception to this would be any scrapbooking layout template which may be in a layered .psd file. If that is the case, a file compatible with other programs (should you be unable to use the .psd format) will be provided

All items may be re-colored, cropped or sized for your needs. However, this does not grant the user the right to convey themselves as the creator of said items. Athena/Studio Incognito Designs retains the copyright to all items, though the purchase of my product allows the purchaser the "right to use."

If you have any questions concerning the terms contained in this document, please contact Athena at studioincognito@charter.net

These digital art files are for your own personal use only.

You may use these graphics for scrapbook pages, cards, or any other craft as long as it is for personal use only.

You may modify the colors and tones in these products to suit your creative needs.

No Commercial Use of this product is allowed other than what is outlined below.

I require no credit when using this product for Personal Use, Scrap for Hire or Scrap for Others. However, if any project using my product is published, regardless of media type, I require that you provide the appropriate credit as outlined below:

- Designer Name
- Product Name
- Website
- Website URL (as allowed by publication)

These digital files may be used by hobbyist and professional crafters to create their own handmade items such as greeting cards, paper or digital scrapbooks, candy wrappers, or stationery. The items that the customer receives from the professional crafter must be in a flattened (jpeg) or printed form, and they should not be able to use the item as a template. Please contact me if you plan on mass producing (more than 100 pieces in a calendar year) an item using my products, because that would require purchasing a separate commercial license.

This Terms of Use file is good for the life of the purchaser and will not be changed in the future. No additional licensing fee is required for this Personal and Limited Professional Crafter and Scrapbooking license to be valid.

These items are not to be used to create any other digital products (papers, embellishments, quick pages, templates, etc.) for resale commercially.

My files are not to be shared, re-sold, rented or otherwise transferred to another user by any method, including templates or altered items created from them.

Please note items that I offer for free or that I create as part of a collaboration are now eligible for S4H/S4O or Professional Crafting. The only exception to this would be if I participated in a site's Team Kit – then the site's Terms of Use would apply.

I encourage Scrap For Hire (S4H) and Scrap For Others (S4O) use of my products and welcome any comments, questions, concerns in regard to my products. As well as any product requests and ways I might improve my products to better serve the Scrapbooking community.
